Lafleche Mayor Reads Riot Act After Threat To Police Force

MONTREAL (CP)—Mayor Alexandre Girard of suburban Lafleche read the Riot Act in the main corridor of Lafleche City Hall Friday to a group of civic employees and citizens who happened to be present.

He told reporters later he took the "extreme" step because a telephone caller informed him that ex-police chief Georges Beaulieu and some friends wanted to take over the police department.

The Riot Act prohibits a public gathering of more than three persons at a time, he said, and also imposed a 9 p.m. curfew on cars. Persons convicted of an offence under the act were

Harriman Spurs West's Efforts To Combat Surging Red Tide

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP)—W. Averell Harriman, United States undersecretary of state for political affairs, called on Western nations Saturday night for greater efforts to counter Communist activity in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

He said increasing competition between Russian and Chinese Communists for support on every continent calls for more Western military, technical and economic aid to countries under Communist pressure.

"Each free country has a role to play in this enterprise, some more and some less depending on their own resources and potential," he told the Canadian-American Assembly, a gathering sponsored jointly by the University and the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

Mr. Harriman said the U.S. and Canada are not always in full agreement on the analysis of problems or on ways to deal with them.

But usually there was agreement on major world problems. "In the most fundamental matters, on the things that count the most, on the broad outlines of the kind of world we want for ourselves and our children and our grandchildren, there can be

Hospital "Negligent"

VICTORIA (CP)—A coroner's jury Friday ruled that negligence on the part of an employee or employees of a private hospital contributed to the death of Mrs. Jessie Charlton Little of Victoria.

The inquest was called after Mrs. Little, a patient at Glenora Private Hospital, died Feb. 28, a day after she was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital here with a fractured and dislocated left arm suffered at the private hospital.

The verdict was returned despite evidence that Mrs. Little could have been responsible for the injury to her arm.

The last person to testify in the four-day inquest was Dr. Michael Ross, who was called in as an expert witness.

David Hummel, counsel for the private hospital, asked Dr. Ross if he had heard Mrs. Little's physician, Dr. J. W. E. Hunt, tell the inquest that Mrs. Little had limited movement of her arms and legs.

A GOOD DAY TO FORGET...

CHANCE, N.D. (AP)—

Wednesday was a bad day for Dorothy Gower.

First the accidentally driven her car through the family garage, peeling a large hole in the back wall. Then police and firemen came roaring to her home in response to an alarm.

Inspector William Perry and witnesses told Mr. Blanc, a fur cutter who served in the Second World War and the Arab-Israeli war in 1948, met his death in the head from about 50 feet away.

His wife, who had witnessed the chase, threw herself on the body and screamed, "That's my husband! That's my husband!"

Within hours of the fatal shooting Friday of Jack Blanc, 56, veteran of two wars, Police Chief James Mackey authorized a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the capture and conviction of the heavily-armed bandit who blocked pursuit with a hail of bullets.

The witnesses of a police chase was added, spraying shattered glass into the eyes, face and neck of a constable.

Police searched for a 1960 yellow Pontiac - crossing points into the United States were covered.

Negro Army Battles Police In Seething Rochester Ghetto

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—An overnight curfew has been ordered in the face of night-long rioting and the threat of more racial trouble in this strife-torn city.

City manager Porter W. Holmer ordered the curfew to begin at 8 p.m. tonight and end at 7 a.m. Sunday or continue until the state of emergency is terminated.

His action followed a night in which hundreds of Negroes rioted in this northern New York state community, burning stores, looting stores and overturning automobiles.

Holmer said the curfew ordered all residents to remain indoors and stay off the streets until the emergency status was lifted.

No deaths were reported but nine policemen and a fireman.

More than 80 persons were injured.

City officials declared a state of emergency. New York State police moved in and helped local authorities establish an uneasy truce this morning.

B.C. Gasoline Industry Said: "Dynamic And Competitive"

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four panics because predatory pricing requires "vicious" price cuts called the gasoline industry in B.C. "dynamic" and "competitive".

The economists, members of the Stanford University Research Institute, Friday presented a 400-page brief and their findings on the gasoline market in B.C. to the Royal Commission on Gasoline Prices sitting here.

The independent brief, commissioned by Imperial Oil Limited, contended that the behavior of gasoline prices and the gasoline market in B.C. is indicative of competition between oil companies.

SHI economist Dr. Lee Preston told the commission that both perfect competition and perfect monopoly are mainly abstract concepts in economic textbooks.

"Most of the real world is competitive somewhere between these two extremes, and investigation of this area is not worth while unless done by experts, since there are so many factors involved and so many ways of analyzing and comparing data," he said.

Dr. Preston said there is no evidence of predatory price behavior in B.C.'s major oil companies.

Even though the major oil companies have lowered their prices to within one cent of discount outlets, the independent outlets have not but their share of the market and have not been driven out of it, he said.

"The market is still dynamic, the independents are still competing, as are the majors," Dr. Preston also noted it is easy to get into the gas retailing business, and that this also makes it highly competitive.

Commission Counsel I.H. B. King questioned the SHI group on some alternative pricing system for gasoline, proposed earlier by Cyril Shefford, Social Credit MLA for Okanagan, but the economists rejected all of them as being unworkable under some form of pricing.

They said pricing would lead to undesirable results for the gasoline consumer.

"The present pricing system in B.C. based partly on the size of the market, partly on proximity of refineries and partly on transportation and distribution costs, is one of the systems that results from a competitive market," the report said.

Foot Cut Off - Sewn Back On

OTTAWA (CP) — A team of Ottawa surgeons Thursday performed a unique operation on a nine-year-old boy's foot. The boy's foot had been crushed by a car wheel and was so badly damaged that it had to be amputated.

The doctors said the foot-attaching operation performed on Suzanne Lafontaine was accomplished with new equipment developed recently by the National Research Council to staple together severed veins and arteries with metal clips.

"Life as Fighter Pilot" Better Than on Iskut

VANCOUVER (CP) — Flying prospect Max Portz would prefer five more years as a fighter pilot to his eight-day tag game with death on the Iskut River.

Portz and partner Bob Gilroy spent those days huddled on an aircraft position miles above the river, soaking wet and hungry, certain to perish if they fell.

They scrambled to their perch July 14 after their plane overturned on the glacial-fed Iskut, 600 miles north of Vancouver.

Rescue came Wednesday when they were spotted by a search plane sweeping low into the Iskut valley, a wilderness Gilroy described Thursday night as "the roughest country in the world, bar none."

Interviewed by telephone from Terrace, B.C., Gilroy said their leased tri-jet aircraft struck a mud bank, flipped, and drifted upside down for a mile and half until it caught on a sand bar. With a water temperature of 32 or 33 degrees, it would have meant death in two minutes if they had tried to strike out for shore.

They ate nothing during the eight days and watched sleep a few minutes at a time. More than a dozen planes flew by without seeing them. They prayed silently.

In the end, they emerged little the worse for wear. Portz, a father of three, flew here Thursday. He said in an interview.

You thought that things should have been a little better in life before you go. You learned to pray, I'll tell you that.

The men met only last July 1. Portz, 40, was new to the North and Gilroy, a 38-year-old bachelor, has been "all over North America since I was 15."

They set up camp at the junction of the Iskut and Iskut Rivers. The sand bar where the plane came to rest was about two miles from the camp.

The water was about six feet deep and with the fuselage submerged, they were unable to chop their way into the plane for supplies.

While they waited it rained almost continually. "All except for about four hours I think," said Gilroy. They huddled each other to provide a little warmth, both remember the cold as the worst part of the ordeal.

"The weather was really grim—raining and blowing all the time," said Gilroy. "But we thought the chances were pretty good of being seen. We were right on a main air route for bush pilots."

Those prospectors passed the time trading experiences from the Second World War. Gilroy had served with the Royal Canadian Navy in the North Atlantic. Portz flew Spitfires for the Royal Air Force, and later the Royal Canadian Air Force, over Britain, the Continent and Africa.

The stories worked out about even-stevens, said Gilroy. They tried to ignore their hunger, "hoping it would go away."

ABSENCE DISCOVERED On Thursday Terrace pilot Doug Chappell made a regular flight into their camp with supplies and found that the last entry in their diary was dated July 14. He sparked a civilian search and Wednesday afternoon, when low clouds started to break, the men were spotted and picked up with ease by a Beaver aircraft.

They were flown to a mining camp and then to Terrace, where both were pronounced fit except for minor cases of exhaustion.

"That Iskut river is worse than poison," Gilroy said Thursday night, even as he made plans to charter a plane and head right back for the last five weeks of the season.

Portz, whose family is waiting at Roseland, B.C., has had his first and last prospecting experience. "I'll take five years of war to the river," he said.

When she was bedridden with a broken leg, Mrs. Capron testified her husband of 35 years had kept his secret from her. At least one time he offered $100,000 if someone would take her off his hands. She charged angrily.

The property settlement was scheduled Thursday by lawyers at the divorce trial.

Under the agreement Mrs. Capron will get 800 acres of land at Laguna Niguel, south of Laguna Beach on the Southern California coast. Capron was given the option of buying it back for $16,000,000 between Jan. 30 and Feb. 28, 1965.

Capron was a struggling baseball player when they married in 1929, she said. He made his money by property trades, her lawyer said.

Wife Finally Awarded A Share Of Husband's Secret Millions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 74-year-old woman who said her husband made her live frugally for 35 years of marriage was granted an inheritance of $100,000 Thursday.

Mrs. Hannah R. Capron of Newport Beach, Calif., said her husband George, made her live frugally for 35 years of marriage. She charged angrily.

The property settlement was scheduled Thursday by lawyers at the divorce trial.

Under the agreement Mrs. Capron will get 800 acres of land at Laguna Niguel, south of Laguna Beach on the Southern California coast. Capron was given the option of buying it back for $16,000,000 between Jan. 30 and Feb. 28, 1965.

Capron was a struggling baseball player when they married in 1929, she said. He made his money by property trades, her lawyer said.

They are Greek citizens ordered to leave Turkey. Many of them were born in Turkey. Many have never even visited Greece.

So far, Turkey has ordered more than 800 of Istanbul's estimated 9,000 Greek nationals to pack up and leave. The Greek community believes all will be forced to go eventually.

The deportation, which began last March, has sent shock waves through the estimated 50,000 Turkish citizens of Greek descent residing in the Greater Istanbul area.

They fear some kind of reprisals against them also. The Turkish government denies this, saying that as Turkish citizens they enjoy full citizenship rights and protection under the constitution.

Written Word Growing Fast In Commons Question Period

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliamentarians are taking a look at an aspect of their business conducted almost exclusively with the written word.

For the last three parliamentary sessions, there has been a remarkable increase in the number of written questions submitted by MPs, some requiring lengthy and detailed written replies.

The ballooning of the written questions coincided with growing concern in the Commons about the length of the daily oral question period.

As successive presiding officers sought to shorten and sharpen the daily oral question period, more and more written questions began to appear on the order paper.

In the three sessions between November, 1960, and April, 1962, the number of written questions never rose above 500. They covered every conceivable subject from who got a contract to repair a wharf in an MP's constituency to requests for detailed policy statements.

In the 1962-63 session there was a three-fold jump in the number of written questions to almost 1,500. They stayed at or above that level over since, hitting a record 1906 last session and standing at 1,539 July 22.

One factor in the increase may have been that the opposition Liberals in the 1962-63 session accented the chance for an election and were getting tough with the Conservative government of the day.

Since the Liberals took office in April, 1963, the Conservatives and other opposition groups have kept up the running fire of written questions. Some sources suggest there may be a retaliation factor since no one knows better than a former cabinet minister how much ministerial and departmental time is consumed in preparing replies to such queries, many of which contain up to a dozen separate parts.

Length of the session apparently has had nothing to do with the upsurge. The three sessions before 1962-63 ran 95 days, 174 days and 65 days, respectively, with the number of written questions 312, 485, and 461, respectively.

Five Ku Klux Klan Members Charged With Cross-Burning

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Five men identified as Ku Klux Klan members have been charged with cross-burning as the state attorney-general vowed to "pursue law breakers until peace returns" to embattled St. Augustine.

Florida Attorney-General Dan Warren said he would swear out additional warrants today charging several persons with fostering violence.

He obtained five warrants Friday charging the alleged Klansmen with burning a cross on private property without permission.

The charges were the first against Klan leaders since racial violence broke out two months ago.

Friday morning a fire bomb exploded in the empty dining room of the Monson Motor Lodge, whose owner had agreed at one time to integrate but then refused when white segregationists began picketing.

MELEES BREAK OUT Besides massive melees that broke out when Negroes marched in the streets and tried to swim on white beaches there have been many small incidents. Whites have attacked small groups of Negroes repeatedly and on occasion chased them through the streets in automobiles.

The conversation was not entirely uplifting. The Peace River is only splitting distance from the hotel.

The next—almost magnetic—step in the half-light of the northern evening was to stroll down to the steep riverbank and watch the Peace flowing strongly past.

A cougar-yellow dog came along, looking for company. He sat down, tail-wagging and contented, and joined in the lazy game of river-watching.

All around was an absolute stillness. The clatter of dam construction seemed a million miles away.

Hudson Hope is a nice town to kill time in.

POWER DEVELOPMENT PREDOMINANT FACTOR

Face of B.C.'s North Changes

Development of British Columbia's northern interior, the Peace River power project, is predominant, has heightened the pace of life in pioneer settlements, temporarily at least. This story tells how one town has changed.

By DAVE STOCKAND

HUDSON HOPE, B.C. (CP) The Mountie came out balancing a tray.

A high-booted waiter wearing a gun, he was making a quick march in the line of duty, a short order patrol from the kitchen of Hudson Hope's only hotel to RCMP headquarters down the street.

It was mealtime at the local calaboose.

"They got a couple of beaver poachers locked up," a sidewalk lounge said to nobody in particular.

The lounge was strategically located. He could point toward the jail and still straddle Hudson Hope's two main doorways—one to the hotel beer parlor and the other to the National Employment Service branch office.

Hudson Hope, next door neighbor to the Portage Mountain damsite of the giant Peace River power project, is still a place that paces itself at trading-post tempo, a nice town in hill time in.

There have been changes since dam-building started by its standards, "The Hope" is having a galloping case of progress.

POPULATION ZOOMS In three years the population has zoomed from a static minus-100 to a floating 700-plus.

There is a water and sewage system. Thirteen teachers have been lined up for the fall term to teach, as far as Grade 10, a student enrolment expected to reach 400. A supermarket has opened.

There are trailers galore in Hudson Hope, providing a temporary suburbia.

There is a bank, though a bandit with a flair for the spectacular could make the getaway of the century by putting wheels back under it and pulling out in a cloud of dust, or gumbo.

Hudson Hope's hopes, generally, are not long range.

Once the power dam is completed in 1968 it takes only a small crew to maintain it. Villagers expect tourist and sight-seeing benefits flowing from the dam will go mainly to the rival community of Chetwynd to the south—a new road to the dam will bypass Hudson Hope—or to eastern points linked by the Alaska highway.

HOTEL THE FOCUS Epicentre of Hudson Hope social life is the Peace Glen Hotel, a newcomer of a building set alongside the rickety tilt of its abandoned predecessor.

The Peace Glen pays tip-service to Peace River power, boasting on its match folders: "Site of the world's largest dam."

The dam is going up 12 miles away. And, big as the $73,000,000 project is, it can't truthfully lay claim to a global record.

Signs on the hotel bulletin board are more down to earth: "For rent, 8-by-40 two-bedroom trailer." . . . "Will quarter one beef." . . . "One guitar—like new."

But you can't get away from the fact — nor can 1,000 construction men at the damsite — that Hudson Hope is the only watering hole for miles around.

The bartender in the Peace Glen cocktail lounge says that, generally, the working stiffs from the dam are a good-natured crew. Circumstances have changed, though.

TOP PAY The hardrock miners who built the diversion tunnels before the start on the dam proper got top pay. While the biggest two-week pay cheques passed over the bar now are in the $300 neighborhood, when the hardrock boys were busy, those were the days — some cheques topped $700.

"The only real trouble we have is when a gang is laid off," said the bartender. "They figure they've paid for the furniture here in the months they've been in and that they should be able to do what they want with it."

In the stadium-sized beer parlor a few steps away,

U.S. Women Edge Toward Greater Political Roles

A few years ago the idea of a woman running for the presidency of the United States on a major ticket brought loud belly laughs from the men but any male who noticed the distaff action at this year's Republican national convention now laughs a little more nervously.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith was nominated and set some sort of a new plateau for women. She conducted a more or less active campaign (it cost, she said, about $300,000) and even entered several preliminaries. She did not receive a great many votes at the convention but her formal entry remains the first of any female in either major party.

The convention chalked up another "first" for American women. Congresswoman Clare Booth Luce made a major address, the first speech by a member of her sex except for second-order speeches.

It is in the last twenty years that women have emerged from behind the scenes in American politics. Many splinter parties have been formed over the years to aid the promotion of a woman for president. One of the latest attempts was made in 1952 when a Mrs. Linea Jensen ran on the George Washington Peace Party ticket. What support might have been engendered vanished when she announced she had just communicated with the father of her country. However, the times have changed and now women are being nominated as the candidates of major parties.

Perhaps four years from now we will have a woman contesting the election for the presidency with a man.

While there has been no indication in Canada as yet that a woman aspires to the leadership of any of our political parties, the day may not be far off when we have a woman prime minister. That may make the men shudder, but could women make any greater hash of Parliament than the men are presently doing?

Dangerous Hitchhikers

That speed is the great killer on the highways is an accepted commonplace of today.

But the Ontario Safety League, varying its reiterated warnings in this regard, has issued another emphatic warning, against hitchhikers.

"You can not be sure a picked-up stranger is harmless until he leaves your car," the warning emphasizes; and point out that the motorist who picks up a hitch-hiker risks robbery, assault and possibly murder.

In support of its contention that hitch-hikers are deadly dangerous, the League cites a small Arizona town where police, impressed by the large number of hitch-hikers passing through, decided to take stock.

Out of 100 hitch-hikers checked, only four were without police records. Eighty-four had criminal records. The remaining 12 were either juvenile run-aways or servicemen AWOL.

Such findings make things tough for the hitch-hiker whose sole desire is to get a helpful lift. But if the Arizona showing is a fair example, the motorist swayed by sympathy is taking too many chances.

Involved Question

The individual's drinking habits should be considered when the decision is made as to whether he or she be granted a permit to operate a motor vehicle is the opinion of the Ottawa Citizen. Drinking habits should be as relevant to granting a driver's permit as eyesight, color-blindness, or other physical or emotional factors, the Citizen claims.

It suggests that there is nothing wrong in refusing a driver's permit to a person, who because of his drinking is more than an ordinary hazard on the highways.

Under such a system the licensing authorities would place applicants known to have alcoholic problems under special and exhaustive examination before issuing a driver's permit, which is not a licence but a permit to drive safely; a privilege granted to those who have the outlook and the attitude of mind to obey the law.

In short this means that the individual seeking a driver's permit would be tried on the evidence of the courts in other cases which the courts already had decided upon. Either that or the individual would face a trial in which the evidence would be previous convictions, or for that matter acquittals in charges involving liquor.

The Canadian Motor Association proposes that applications for driver's permit contain a clause under which the applicant would agree to submit to blood or breathalyzer tests if involved in an accident. The effect of this would be to obtain the consent of the applicant to testify against himself, in the event of being involved in an accident. This could mean that a man once convicted of being under the influence of liquor when driving, would have that conviction introduced as evidence against him. He may not have had a drink of liquor for a month and the accident was not the result of his having a drink, but the conviction, months or years previously, would be evidence against him.

Certainly something must be done to eliminate the drinking driver, without infringing his basic rights as a citizen. It is perfectly legal for him to purchase liquor and in every province the government either directly or through a licensed agent sells him liquor. Possibly the better approach would be to restrict the sale of liquor or forbid it to an individual who had alcoholic problems or against whom a conviction for drunken driving has been registered.

THE LONG HOT SUMMER

QUEBEC PRESS LOOKS AT NEWS

Student Loans Studied Confederation Guards

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Devoir — The Commonsense vote in favor of the federal government's plan for loans to university students helps clarify the meaning of certain recent speeches on co-operative federalism.

Let us take first of all the statement by the federal minister of justice (Hon. Guy Favreau) at the recent meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

The minister concluded by saying that "in a healthy federal system each sector of government fully respects the jurisdiction and responsibilities of the other sectors."

This is a clear and categorical statement on the requirements of federalism. But in the constitution, education is a field reserved for the provinces. Nevertheless, Mr. Favreau, as a minister in the Pearson government, proposes and approves these federal loans to students which are an invasion of provincial jurisdiction. According to Mr. Favreau's own definition, one could say our federalism is sick.

In the Commons July 9, Leon Baler (PC—Trois-Rivières) asked Hon. Maurice Lamontagne whether he was aware of opposition from Quebec university students to the federal loans. The state secretary replied that all provincial rights are protected in the bill. The minister's statement is represented in the bill by a provision that allows a province to receive federal compensation if it operates its own system of grants to students.

This is what they call respecting the rights of the province. This system remains unacceptable because it is the central government which takes initiatives in purely provincial questions; which collects and uses taxes for provincial ends; which imposes the controls and terms of its programs even upon provinces which don't want any part of them.

This is an odd sort of federalism where the central state pretends to respect its jurisdiction but in fact invades the jurisdiction of the provinces under the pretext of reducing its interference at a lower administrative level while imposing unconstitutional decisions.

Co-operative federalism as brought only a new tone to the centralizing system. Now when the central government wants to invade a provincial field of jurisdiction it starts by consulting the provinces instead of presenting them with a fait accompli.

Nevertheless, it is an improvement, especially for Quebec which can thus protect its prerogatives a little better, or at least less badly, than before. — Paul Saurol (July 1)

ment is represented in the bill by a provision that allows a province to receive federal compensation if it operates its own system of grants to students.

This is what they call respecting the rights of the province. This system remains unacceptable because it is the central government which takes initiatives in purely provincial questions; which collects and uses taxes for provincial ends; which imposes the controls and terms of its programs even upon provinces which don't want any part of them.

This is an odd sort of federalism where the central state pretends to respect its jurisdiction but in fact invades the jurisdiction of the provinces under the pretext of reducing its interference at a lower administrative level while imposing unconstitutional decisions.

Co-operative federalism as brought only a new tone to the centralizing system. Now when the central government wants to invade a provincial field of jurisdiction it starts by consulting the provinces instead of presenting them with a fait accompli.

Nevertheless, it is an improvement, especially for Quebec which can thus protect its prerogatives a little better, or at least less badly, than before. — Paul Saurol (July 1)

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Gold Rush Lure Drew Thousands

By ART GRAY

The lure of gold in the British Columbia Cariboo country drew thousands of people to this province in the early stages of the last century, a little more than a century ago.

A new found wealth, and used to good advantage, others waited their new found riches, to end up in poverty. The majority, though, gained little other than experience, and perhaps a small state, and of this group many made their home here and pioneered the early development of B.C. Several found their way eventually into the Okanagan Valley, and it is the story of one of these, Alexander Leslie Fortune, that I wish to tell you now.

Most of the gold-seekers came by land, from California and Oregon, or by sea from San Francisco to Victoria, and thence up the Fraser, but some came all the way from Eastern Canada by land, across the Prairies.

ALREADY TOLD

There were not too numerous, comparatively, and were called "Overlanders." The story of the Schubert family, who travelled from Fort Garry to Kamloops with their family, has already been published in the Okanagan Historical Society's annual reports. From these and other sources this story of his adventures is compiled.

One may be inclined to wonder why this group chose to cross the trackless Prairies.

The overland route was chosen, according to Fortune's story, because of news reports appearing in Ontario papers, telling of miners coming into Fort Edmonton, with quantities of gold.

They had actually mined the gold in the Cariboo, but the stories spoke as though they had made their discoveries on the eastern side of the Rockies, and Edmonton was the original objective of these argonauts from Ontario and Quebec.

Early in 1862 parties were organized in several districts, and while we are accustomed to think of the Overlanders as one group, they were actually many small groups travelling together for mutual protection and assistance.

Each group took its name from the principal town from which they came. There was the Montreal party, one member of which was George Tunstall later government agent at Kamloops; the Huntingdon party included John Bowron who was gold commissioner and government agent in the Cariboo for many years. The Ottawa party, including the Glassford brothers, the Whitty party, containing a number of professional men, including Dr. McPherson, and a printer and a tailor. The Markham party from north of Toronto, of which one member was J. Torrence, the Toronto company, which included J. A. Mars, later a member of parliament.

Elite SS Women

"Worse Than Men"

FRANKFURT (AP) — Testimony 20 years later shows that the SS (elite guard) women in Hitler's Germany often were more brutal than the men—and rarely was brought to justice.

There are no women defendants in the war crimes trials now going on in West Germany. A handful were hanged under verdicts by Allied war crimes tribunals, just after the war, but most of the SS women escaped punishment.

Allied authorities in general were reluctant to believe women capable of the atrocities attributed to their male counterparts. The current trials show the SS women frequently outdid them.

Former concentration camp inmates say the SS women competed with their male comrades in devising tortures and developing unique methods of killing. They pressed to help at mass slaughters of prisoners, often followed by orgies.

Who were the tens of thousands of women in Heinrich Himmler's SS?

CROSS-SECTION

Trials testimony pictures them as a cross-section of German womanhood. Girls in their teens, matrons in their 40s and 50s; highly educated women, often of noble blood, and women with so little schooling they barely could scratch out their names on pay chits, they shared one thing in common—the conviction they had open hunting season on those Himmler termed "living matter unworthy of life." These were primarily Jews and Slavs, but anyone else unwilling to accept the dictates of Nazi ideology.

To put into practice what their convictions demanded, these women took basic training at various camps, then went to Dachau Concentration Camp for instruction in murder and torture techniques taught by Himmler's collaborators.

From Dachau, they were assigned to concentration camps—250 in Germany and German-occupied Europe—to guard female prisoners. They were ashamed and after whom the lake and village of the western entrance to the Okanagan Valley are named. The largest group was the St. Catharines (or Niagara) party, numbering 20 persons. T. McKinnon, later of New Westminster, Brock McKinnon of Kamloops and John Dodd were identified as with this group, wintering in A. L. Fortune was with the Arden group which numbered only six. On May 2, 1862, Alexander Leslie Fortune bade goodbye to his young bride, the former Miss Bathia Ross, of Lancaster, and boarded a train at River Bend, Ontario boundary. Little did either of them realize then that it would be 17 long years before they met again.

Fortune was heading for Detroit, and en route was joined at Arden by the five others who made up the Arden party. Fortune, at that time, was 32 years old, having been born at Hingham, Quebec, Jan. 20, 1830.

HEALTH REASONS

He had been a theological student in his younger days, but had to give this up at the time because of health. Throughout his life, Fortune was a strong religious man, and there is a strong religious note indicative of his early training.

At Detroit the party purchased pistols and rifles and ammunition, in readiness to fight their way against Indians. They then went westward through Chicago (nine years before the big fire) and on to the Michigan Central to LaCrosse, Wisconsin, where they boarded a steamer, a stern-wheeler, which took them up the Mississippi against a strong current, to St. Paul, which he described as "a small city with a few good buildings, built mostly of wood, and many unpainted."

From there they travelled in four-wheel coaches, with four horses "fairly comfortable, with covers to protect them from sun or rain." Their destination was Georgetown, on the Red River. Shortly after leaving St. Paul they passed through the small village of St. Anthony (now the city of Minneapolis). They crossed the Mississippi at St. Cloud, and passed through Indian country.

At Georgetown there were American soldiers, and travellers were warned not to venture far from the fort. The steamer "International" was making its maiden voyage, and the Overlanders faced its capacity, and the larger, which played out before three days.

They were reduced to eating "mouldy pemmican, with a lot of buffalo hair in it," and hard tack. Even the sauce of hunger did not make it palatable. In eight days they reached Fort Garry, a welcome sight. There was only a small settlement then, mostly half-breeds, and French Canadians at St. Boniface, and Scots at Kildonan. The party of Overlanders were excited at reaching the starting place for their long journey to the gold fields.

NEXT WEEK: "World War I Explodes." Further installments of The Overlanders start Aug. 22.

In Passing

"Girls will be girls," says a woman columnist. Yes, indeed—and thank goodness.

It's impossible to learn the difference in meaning between "liberal" and "conservative," as this depends upon who uses the terms—and he doesn't know.

The weather isn't the only thing men talk about, but do nothing about. Another such subject is women.

You are moderate in all your views: your friends strays a bit at time from the middle of the road; your enemy is an out-and-out fanatical extremist.

The Russian word for "labor" sounds far more fitting than the English one. It is "Trud."

The girl who is riding a motorcycle in and around Chingford, England, wearing only a crash helmet is doing one sensible thing.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Mongoloid Danger In Older Mother

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: After having normal children, I had a mongoloid. It passed away shortly after birth. I am very depressed and long to have another child, but my husband and I don't want to go through such heartbreak again.

How does such a birth occur? Is it more probable for women in their 40's? Can chromosome tests be made on the mother and father to predict whether the next baby will be mongoloid? Can such a birth be prevented? Can the percentage of risk be determined?—MRS. W.V.

This is a difficult letter to reply to because only a portion of the answers are as yet apparent. (A mongoloid baby is one which is mentally retarded. It also has some physical characteristics, slanted eyes, flattened nose, etc., which led to the term mongoloid.)

It was only about five years ago that mongolism was scientifically determined to be a genetic defect, the baby having 47 instead of the usual 46 chromosomes.

This difference in chromosomes may be inherited, or it may not; apparently it can also be a freak of development independent of the cellular makeup of the parents.

Anyway, some discrepancy in the chromosome count has been traced back as far as grandparents. The tendency may be present, yet no mongoloid babies appear for a generation or so. We need to know more about this. Much more.

Again, we also know that mothers under 30 seem to have about one mongoloid baby per 1,000 births. At the age of 40 or above, this increases to two or three per 1,000 births. The mother's age is the important factor; the father's doesn't seem to be a factor.

For practical purposes, I can say only that if a young mother has a mongoloid baby, complicated tests may show that she should not have any more children. In some cases, the advice will be a firm "NO." In others, we cannot say.

With older mothers, we can't say whether age or genetics is at work.

I wish I could give a nice, simple, concise answer here, but I can't. For one thing, it is certainly possible to have a mongoloid baby, yet have a perfectly normal baby afterward.

So here is the best answer I can offer to Mrs. W.V. or others concerned with this problem:

1—Yes, tests can be made but they are not conclusive in all cases. Only in some. Most of the big medical centres now can make such tests. They are too intricate for individual doctors to make.

2—Age of the mother is a factor.

3—There is no known method of preventing mongoloid babies. A mongoloid can occur along with normal or even exceptionally superior children.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend stationed in the Philippines who wrote and said he got venereal disease from too much powdered milk. Is this possible?—ALBERT J.

That's about the lamest excuse I ever heard. No.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a gall bladder to grow back after being removed?—M.R.

Pink and White Is Theme Of Davis-Driscoll Rites

Pink Peonies and roses decorated the Roman Catholic Church for the wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Patricia Gayle, daughter of Joseph Driscoll of Kelowna, and Wilfred Lorne Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis of Kelowna.

Pastor L. Krentler officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. Don Ritchie and Miss Linda Andrews sang "Walter, Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. D. Andrews.

Given in marriage by her brother, Fred Driscoll, the bride wore a full-length gown of French lace and a Chantilly collar. Her fitted lace bodice was fastened with a scoop neckline and long blouson sleeves, and the full skirt featured a front panel of lace and a chapel train at back falling gracefully from a cluster of satin roses at the waistline.

A crown of simulated pearls and a train of crystals held her three-tiered elbow-length veil of white tulle. Her fitted lace train was fastened with a scoop neckline and long blouson sleeves, and the full skirt featured a front panel of lace and a chapel train at back falling gracefully from a cluster of satin roses at the waistline.

Mrs. Jean Bulach, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Jo Anne Saklofsky of Kelowna and Miss Yvonne Glanzer of Edmonton, who were charming in pink sparkle organza sheaths with matching pink wedding ring headresses trimmed with pink illusion tulle. They carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

The tiny flower girls Sandra and Laurie Graf, nieces of the bride, were delightful in A-line frocks of pink sparkle organza ruffled at the hem lines, and they carried a basket of white flowers between them.

The groom's two attendants were his brother Oran Davis and Kurt Hoeske and the ushers were Laverne Duncan and the bride's brother Kenneth Driscoll, all of Kelowna.

At the reception held in the Okanagan Academy, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a sheath dress of flowered green silk with a matching jacket, a white hat and white accessories. She was assisted by the bride's aunt, Miss Grace McKay who wore a two-piece dress of yellow printed silk with white accessories, and the groom's mother who chose a corset complemented with a white hat and white accessories. All three hostesses wore corsages of white carnations to complement their ensembles.

Baskets of large pink peonies decorated the bride's table which was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and a purple orchid and flanked by tall white tapers. The auditorium was decorated with pink and white wedding bells and pink roses, and the three wedding cars were trimmed with blue and white streamers with a large blue heart fronting the bride's car.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Dan Reising, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Reising, Mrs. George Reising, Mr. and Mrs. Del Reising, Miss Verna Moser and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Berg, all of Winfield, Miss Pamela Saklofsky of Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dofner of Lower Nicola, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Duane La Marsh of Ods, Alberta, Miss Yvonne Glanzer of Edmonton, Miss Selma Yanke of College Heights, Alberta, Gay James of Oshawa, Ontario, Mrs. William Davis of Wanham, Alberta, Mrs. William Shannon of Westbank and Mr. and Mrs. John Jelder of Winfield.

Before leaving on her honeymoon to Banff and Jasper the bride changed to a suit of pink silk shantung, a smart white pillbox hat and white accessories complemented with a corsage of white carnations surrounding pink roses.

The address of the newlyweds will be RR 5, Kelowna.

Sports Day Big Success

VERNON (Staff) — About 200 youngsters turned out for the 21st annual sports day at Polson Park Friday under the direction of the recreation department here.

Peter Fralick, who co-ordinated the competitions for 56 events in eight and under, 10 and under and 12 and under age groups, said it was a real success and everyone had a grand time. The weather was almost perfect, with sunny skies and a cool breeze most of the day.

Already, initial plans are under way for a second junior sports day, perhaps during the summer carnival.

Here are the results:

Girls 8 and under

High Jump—1. C. Francis; 2. M. Ricketts.

Softball Throw—1. Chris Francis; 2. Maurine Ricketts.

50 Yards—1. Pearl Steiner; 2. Debbie Jarrett; 3. Heidi Wunderli.

Broad Jump—1. Chris Francis; 2. Linda Snider; 3. Mary Ann Kruchner.

Wheelbarrow Race—1. Carol Ann Ross and Pearl Steiner; 2. Heidi Wunderli and Linda Snider; 3. Debby Jarrett and Linda Steiner.

Sack Race—1. Linda Snider; 2. Verita Krukenier; 3. Heidi Wunderli.

Boys 8 and under

Fruit Crop Grows Well With No Bad Snags Yet

VERNON (Staff) — There were no outstanding developments incompleted this weekend. There the weekly Agriculture report was a 30 per cent collapse due to from Mike Oswald, district agriculturalist but this is not serious at all. The area throughout it is relatively high. Winfield to Salmon Arm as well. There are a few apricots beginning to drop from the trees, vegetable delivered with volume expected and parts developed expected in 10 days. The picking of transparent apples has started.

Salmon Arm has a good raspberry crop and the excellent strawberry crop there is almost cleaned up.

Harvesting of cucumbers is now in full swing. Some tomatoes have been picked and volume is due next week.

Farmers are still digging early potatoes with crops good. Picking of beans for processing is underway. Next week some sweet corn will be available.

"Mites and pear psylla are evident in most orchards but don't present any real problem. However, fire blight on pears is causing concern among most of the growers," Mr. Oswald said.

Naturalists Hold Camp

VERNON (Staff) — Four members of the North Okanagan Naturalists Club are attending a 10-day geology camp near Penticton.

The camp which started July 21 will end July 31. The leaders have set up for the teaching of natural history. Patsy Matsumoto, Warren Cook and Glen and Norma Cook are attending from this area.

Frederick King of Vernon is camp director of the Canadian Amateur Society. He is accompanied by three other leaders including Mrs. Harold Lamoureux of Kelowna.

Interest and visit sites are represented by 35 youngsters being taught all phases of natural history and the ecology of the land they live on.

How you can profit from Canada's rapid-growing prosperity for as little as $20 a month. Invest now in DIVERSIFIED INCOME SHARES

Your opportunity to share in the growth and profits of 15 leading Canadian companies which have paid uninterrupted dividends for an average of 40 years!

DIVERSIFIED INCOME SHARES is a semi-fixed investment fund. It consists of a selected list of Common Shares in 15 Canadian companies that have proven records of stability and growth. It holds shares in 15 Canadian companies selected from a "regular" and "alternate" list of 30. If one of the "regular" stocks doesn't perform well, a substitution can be made on advice of the Advisory Board. This means that only the best performers among Canada's "blue-chip" stocks are maintained in the DIS portfolio. The result is a very high degree of security.

WHY INVEST YOUR MONEY?

Thirty years ago you could buy far more with a dollar than you can today. Even a penny went a long way. But the rising cost of living has cut the dollar's value so drastically that if you had kept $1000 in 1949 without putting it into a savings account or investing it, its purchasing value would now be only $800.

To have your money keep pace with rising costs and earn you a good profit, it would pay you to invest in Diversified Income Shares. Every dollar is invested in common stock of the 15 companies which, without exception, represent the leaders in manufacturing, utility and natural resource industries of Canada. Because of this broad diversification, as the Canadian economy grows, your investment must also grow.

HOW YOU CAN PROFIT FROM DIVERSIFIED INCOME SHARES

PAST RECORD: 32 1/2%

Average gain per year for 14 years, including capital gains and reinvested dividends.

In late 1949 and 1950, one man invested a total of $23,350 in the Fund. At the end of January, 1964, he had received $25,208 in dividends and his DIS holdings were worth $78,200.

Even a little money grows into a sizable amount when it is invested on a long-term basis in "blue-chip" stocks. For example, a capital investment of $20 a month would have grown, in five years from $1200 to $1560, in ten years from $2400 to $4010, and in fifteen years from $3600 to $6426 (approximately).

This growth represents the combined effects of dividends and capital gain in share value (which changes according to market fluctuations).

ALL CAPITAL-GAINS ARE TAX FREE!

The DIS 14-year past performance shows an average tax-free Capital Gain of 21.3% per annum, with the result that a $10,000 investment in 1949 has enjoyed a tax-free Capital Gain of $20,798.27 — almost three times the original investment and, in addition, the same investment would have an average 11.2% annual dividend in the total amount of $15,688.07 — twenty per cent of which is deductible from net income tax payable.

THE TIME TO BEGIN IS RIGHT NOW

If you are a young man, Diversified Income Shares will help you accumulate funds for your children's education, your family's future welfare, or your retirement. If you have retired, or plan to retire in a few years, Diversified Income Shares can provide you with a steady income. You determine the periodic payment you desire, and the Fund will redeem sufficient shares to pay you the Dollar Income requested.

CAN THE SHARES BE SOLD AT ANY TIME?

Diversified Income Shares are redeemable any time at the "Bid" or redemption price. The "Bid" value is calculated on the current market prices of the common stocks which are held in the portfolio and which are subject to general market trends. It should be remembered that a mutual fund is a long-term investment and that you have nothing to gain by buying shares today and selling them tomorrow.

Lumby Couple Honor Guests For 25th Wedding Anniversary

LUMBY (Correspondent) — and pale yellow gladi; the Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Norris were guests of honor at a family party in the Legion Hall in Lumby recently on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. They observed the anniversary the following day and the evening was put on for them by members of the family, with 25 in attendance.

All guests met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. White, after which they went to the Legion Hall for a hot turkey supper.

The guests of honor entered the hall to Here Comes the Bride played by Albert Eagle on the piano and after supper the volume turned to the "Anniversary Waltz" also played by Mr. Eagle.

Stan Gorman of Lumby gave a short speech on behalf of all present and presented Mr. and Mrs. Norris with a gift of 25 small bouquets arranged in a picture frame ready for hanging.

Another gift was a large basket containing a beautiful floral arrangement of pink carnations.

WAR CANOE FINISHES UP RACE AS A SUBMARINE - ALMOST

A third place finish was the reward for these determined competitors despite a serious handicap, a scuttled craft. These paddlers refused to quit as their war canoe sinks away. The spectacle of determination was seen at Toronto's Balmby Beach Canoe Club's recent annual regatta. In the war canoe race, Toronto's Sailing and Canoe Club's entry was swamped by high waves near the finish line, but they persevered and kept on paddling to cross the finish line. Accompanying boats stood by, just in case they're needed in the rescue should the canoe go all the way under.

PETER'S PATTERN

with PETER MUNOZ

There's quite a traffic jam these days atop the American and National Leagues' standings. And each passing day seems to add a new serious contender in the top race. The White Sox and Baltimore are the two teams in the junior circuit, the White Sox remain only a whisper away. Now the amazing Angels have zoomed into view as a club on the move.

Meanwhile over in the senior group, Phillies and Giants have been playing Alphonse and Gaston most of the season. Nudging up and down with series gold in their sights are Cincinnati Reds, who still have the pendant taste in their mouth from 1961. Even the lowly Cubs are now playing 500 ball and have to be considered a possibility though not a probability. Of course the old standby Braves, Cardinals, Pirates and Dodgers are still definite threats.

What's happened to the world champion Dodgers is the query of the sports world. Although you couldn't rate them a hitting powerhouse last year, they are even weaker this year. But hitting them perhaps even more, their vaunted pitching staff is no longer almost invincible. That is save for Don Drysdale and strikeout ace Sandy Koufax. Between them, they have won over half the club's games. But they still can come on if they catch fire.

Who's going to pick up the marbles? I wouldn't hazard a guess. But I hope clubs like the Orioles and Phils. . . Not Yankees and Dodgers again.

Old pop-off Jimmy Piersall was spouting off again the other day and the subject of his discourse this time was none other than Casey Stengel. The volatile Mr. P. seems to think old Case is past his prime and can teach young players no more.

Piersall, a former Met who now toils (?) for Los Angeles Angels, is hardly the most potent of ballplayers. He has an amazing faculty for getting involved in controversies, both on the field and off. With umpires, fellow players and fans. . . It's been some time since he last hit the headlines.

Not being especially fond of Casey myself. . . after all the memory is still vivid of how he led his power-packed Yankee machine back in the '50s, in the most constant demolition of my beloved "Burns." Being a staunch Brooklyn fan in that era makes it difficult to work up a love for this grizzled veteran of the baseball wars. . . but I do have grudging admiration.

Sure he had a multi-talent club in those days but it still required something to keep them consistent winners. . . When you get some 30-odd ballplayers together—each of different temperament—for an eight month period each year, and produce enough harmony to jell, it has to be an accomplishment. Granted you must have the horses but you've got to be able to co-ordinate them.

I don't believe you can put too much blame for Mets poor show at Casey's doorstep. . . Perhaps he has slowed down in his later years but he probably still has more baseball savvy than Piersall will ever accumulate, particularly when it comes to making friends and influencing people, like young ballplayers. . . Incidentally, he doesn't have the steeds now.

Nine Canadian Records Fall At P.E.I. Track Meet

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—battered the previous mark by Nine Canadian track and field records were set Friday as Ontario and Quebec athletes dominated the first day of the Eastern Canadian age class track and field championships.

Marg Turner of Lockport, N.S., flashed the 100 yards in 10.8 in the juvenile women's final event to set the record.

Cathy Chapman, the former record holder with a time of 10.9 seconds, finished second. But Miss Chapman later returned to shatter a Canadian record in the 80 metre juvenile women's hurdles. Her 11.6 clocking was three-tenths of a second faster than the previous mark set by Marion Munro of Toronto.

The first record to tumble Friday was in the qualifying heat of the men's juvenile 120 yard hurdles when Mark Arnold of the Chomedy, Que., finished in 14.8 seconds.

Dave Patterson of Toronto Olympic Track Club set a record in the men's midget mile leap of 43 feet 9 1/4 inches in with a 4:24.5 performance that men's midget competition.

Hot-Round Makes Venturi One To Beat In Golf Meet

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Ken Venturi, the United States Open champion, had just finished shooting an exciting eight-under-par 65 in the Insurance City Open Golf Tournament Friday when he was asked:

"Have you heard from Father Murray lately?"

It brought a smile to the trim, 33-year-old Venturi.

"I'm on my own now," he said.

Rev. Frank Murray is a parish priest in San Francisco where Ken's dad runs a pro shop. Venturi credits the priest for helping him regain his lost confidence.

Father Murray wrote a six-page letter to Venturi two days before the Open last month in which he stressed that Ken had the talent to win, urged him to play one shot at a time, to accept success without too much elation and to avoid becoming bitter with defeat.

Venturi, anything but bitter, rallied from a seven-stroke deficit to share the halfway lead Friday with Bert Yancey and Al Bessellink at 133, nine under par for the Wetherfield Country Club's par 35-36-71 course.

It's still a scramble for the top prize in the $50,000 ICO that opens Sunday, but Venturi has to be the one to beat after his hot round Friday in which he one-putted on 10 greens.

Playoff Berth Could Be Stakes

Will Labatts have his hitting shoes laced on tonight? Have the Vernon Luckies finally emerged from their long slumber? The answers to these and perhaps some other posers in the minds of local baseball fans should be answered at 7:30 p.m.

Both clubs face each other for the last time in the regular Okanagan Mainline Baseball League schedule tonight at 8 p.m.

Come early and bring a sweater or blanket are the words of general Jack Burton, Labatts' playing coach. "Jase the Baker," as he is affectionately referred to by teammates, seriously considers this a "must" game.

"We know Vernon is pressing for that last playoff berth and we have to make sure if they squeeze by anyone, it's Merritt, not us."

"This could be our clincher," he said, "so we should be up for this game."

Burton plans to send southpaw Les Brice to the mound tonight and he said if the club can get some runs, "Les can do the job for us."

Vernon, meantime, is expected to counter with young right-hander Daryl Douglas, or possibly their Yankee ace Gary Driessen.

Their long-dormant heavy artillery has become reactivated of late and it's likely they'll pose a threat tonight. Portside swinging first baseman Russ Keckalo broke up their last outing against Penticton with a 10th inning home run.

Labatts should be close to full strength for tonight's outing. Two regulars will be missing. Gerry "the goat" Robertson left Friday for a week's vacation at the Coast and centre fielder Bill Martino is sitting out the second of a two-game suspension for his part in a fracas at Vernon last time these clubs met. Luckies' Perry Romeo, the other participant, will also miss this game and Sunday's at Vernon against league-leading Kamloops Le-

CANADA-U.S. STUDENT TEAM BLANKED BY FIDEL'S CURVEBALL

(CP from Reuters-AP) SANTIAGO DE CUBA — Premier Fidel Castro served up a mixture of sliders and curves Friday to help a Santiago University team beat students from Canada and the United States 26-0 in a baseball game.

Righthander Fidel also had a hit in three tries, while his brother Raul, deputy premier and armed forces minister, had two hits. Raul played second base.

Cuban government leaders and foreign diplomats watched the game from the stands. They had been flown here for Sunday's celebrations of the July 26 revolution which brought Castro to power.

Names were not available of any of the Canadians who played on the losing team, but approximately 25 college students are in Cuba touring for the summer. Their visit was sponsored by the Toronto-based Fair Play for Cuba committee and financed by the Cuban government. The U.S. students on the team were drawn from a group that travelled to Cuba last month against U.S. state department orders.

"Jints" Humiliate Stumbling Bums

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco Giants apparently have moved into Los Angeles intent on burying the Dodgers.

They started digging Friday night and found Dodger third baseman Derrell Griffith wailing the biggest spade.

The opening ceremonies for the defending world champions lasted half an hour during the sixth inning as Griffith made two of his four errors, paving the way for a nine-run rally that carried the Giants to an 11-3 victory.

The victory kept the second-place Giants two games back of Philadelphia Phillies and once again dropped the Dodgers below the .500 level, 10 games off the National League pace.

Juan Marichal, who brought his record to 14-5 and beat the Dodgers for the fifth straight time, was locked in a pitching duel with Joe Mauer for five innings in the opener of the three-game series between the two staunch rivals. A crowd of 54,036 was on hand.

Marichal opened the sixth with a single, took third on Harvey Kuenn's double and both scored on Hal Lanier's single. Mauer then got two men and seemed to be headed out of the inning as Orlando Cepeda hit a grounder that Griffith fielded flawlessly and then threw away.

Before the inning was over, Mauer was in and so were nine runs. Marichal, Kuenn and Lanier each collected another hit in the inning and Griffith continued another bad throw.

Left-hander Chris Short spaced six hits and lowered his earned run average to 1.95 in the Phillies' 9-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

The third-place Cincinnati Reds remained 4 1/2 games back as Jim O'Toole beat Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 with a four-hitter. Houston Colts shut out Chicago Cubs 1-0 behind Hal (Skinny) Brown and Jim Owens and Milwaukee Braves belted New York Mets 8-3.

Short, now 9-5, pitched Philadelphia's first complete game in three weeks while the Phillies capitalized on four Cardinal errors and three hits by Cookie Rojas.

Rojas started a two-run second inning rally with a single, lashed a two-run triple in the sixth and started another two-run rally in the eighth with a single.

O'Toole, bringing his record to 11-4, outpitched Bob Finkel, 8-10, and singled in a run in the sixth as the Reds' decisive two-run seventh.

Lee Maye drove in three runs for the Braves with a double and two singles while Gene Oliver also produced three with a homer and double against the Mets.

Cyprus Issue Quite Capable Of Killing Canada's UN Dream

OTTAWA (CP) — Will Cyprus destroy the Canadian government's lofty aim of substituting United Nations peacekeeping operations for national armies? The great fear in this capital is that it may.

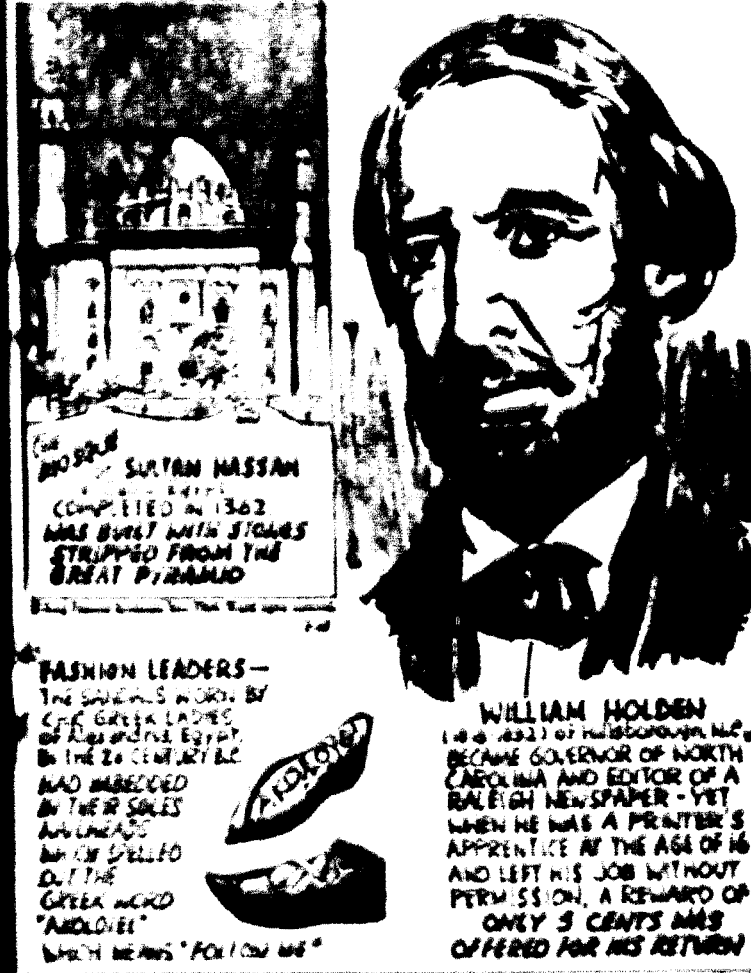

Even as the Cyprus situation worsens, officials here are doggedly pushing ahead with plans for a fall conference of some 10 nations on establishment of an international police force and discussing the possibility of a United Nations patrol along the 100-mile jungle border between South Viet Nam and Cambodia.

Informal sources say the Cyprus situation now has reached the point where the UN force, including 1125 Canadians, is caught in an impossible squeeze.

These are the choices:

1. If the UN force is forced to shoot to kill to keep Greek and Turkish Cypriots apart its mission will have failed. The UN force is in Cyprus at the invitation of the island's government and can't very well shoot Cypriots.

2. If the UN force withdraws and leaves the Turkish minority to the mercy of the better-

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Congential personal relationships will mark this day, with the result that any group activity should prove highly enjoyable. Also favored: romance, travel, sports and creative pursuits.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates a satisfactory, though not a spectacular year. Job affairs will be more or less routine, except for some small but good opportunities to advance in late November, late December and/or next March. And, where financial matters are concerned, you can expect but few gains, and these most likely in September and October. In the interim, you'll have to "play it safe" in monetary matters. No extravagance! No over-expansion! No speculation! Conservatism must be the Leontis byword for the next 12 months.

In your personal life, it's a different and more interesting story. Best periods for romance: August, September, late October, next May and June. The matrimonially-minded could wed their way to the altar during any of these cycles with assurance of stellar blessing. And, if travel's on your mind, the months of August, September, December and May will be highly auspicious. Social and domestic interests will be happily influenced for most of the year ahead.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a magnetic personality but will have to curb tendencies toward arrogance and false pride.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Monday will be one of those days in which "to expect the unexpected." Many changes are possible—either in your personal or business life—but take all in stride. They should prove beneficial in the long run.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that it would be advisable to take advantage of all possibilities for advancing your job status during the next six weeks, since your efforts during this period should bring some gratifying recognition in late November and/or late December—about the only chance you'll have for advancement until next March, when another boost should prove pleasing. Be conservative in financial matters, however, since your only outstanding periods for advancing monetarily during the coming year will occur in September and October. In the intervening months, pursue a sound and realistic course.

Romance and happy family and social relationships should enliven most of the year, with the accent on sentimental matters in August, September, late October, next May and June; on travel and social activities in August, September, December and May. Do try to avoid friction in close circles during the early part of November, however.

A child born on this day will be sensitive and compassionate, and will loathe the injustice of any personality but will have to curb
